

CIS 146 : Computer Applications

This course is an introduction to computer software applications, including word processing, spreadsheets, database management software, and presentation software. This course will introduce students to concepts associated with professional certifications

Credits 3

Theory Credit

3