

MLT 131: Laboratory Techniques I

This course covers the basic principles and techniques used in the medical laboratory. Emphasis is placed on terminology, basic microscopy, safety, and computations. Upon completion, students should be able to perform various basic laboratory analyses and utilize basic theories of laboratory principles. This is a CORE course.

Credits: 4

Prerequisites:

Admission to the Program

Co-Requisites:

MLT 121

Program: Medical Laboratory Technology